

Christian Fabian

Ever since he was a kid Christian was interested in technology, studying electronics as an elective in high school and in college he kept that going with a Bachelor's of Science in Electronics and communications engineering.

Taking a job as a technical customer representative ATt&T and becoming a trainer in both sales and support he is happy to answer any technology questions that you may ask this Season to make your videos the best they can be.